Welcome to this ECU Library Podcast on Finding Faculty Library Resources

Today I'd like to help you locate the best area on the library website to find resources and staff contacts, for the particular subject you are studying. That area is the faculty resource webpages. To locate these resources you need to start from the library website, and then click on the link called "Finding Resources by Faculty".

Here you will find all the library resources organised under the name of each of ECU's 4 faculties, which are:

The Faculty of Business and Law

The Faculty of Education and Arts

The Faculty of Computing, Health and Science

And, the Faculty of Regional Professional Studies, located at the Bunbury Campus.

Do you know which faculty you are in? The faculty names might help identify your faculty. Or, if you don't know, ask the library staff.

There are several access routes (or portals) on our library website, which will take you to useful resources, such as the library journal databases.

However, the advantages of using the faculty link as your portal to library information are:

1. Here you will find links to all the databases for all the subject disciplines of your faculty
2. Plus, there are also links to useful websites for your subject area. These websites have been evaluated and selected by your subject librarian.
3. There are also links to helpful library subject guides, including any available videos and podcasts that have been developed for your subject area

Library resources on the faculty pages are provided by the Faculty and subject librarians who have expertise in the resources available in your faculty subject area. You can contact them for help by going to:

The Library website, click on Library Resources by Faculty,
then select your Faculty,
and then click on Library Team

Please don't hesitate to contact your faculty and subject librarians if you have questions about library services, or if you need help library doing your library research.
