

Take your health career to the next level.

As a postgrad Public Health student, you can choose from a range of courses, some of which can be completed entirely online.

These courses will help you develop practical skills and research competencies that are much sought after by the health industry. They are also extremely flexible, and are available to study on-campus, online, part-time and full-time. Taught by lecturers with significant industry experience, you'll graduate with the relevant skills and knowledge required to help individuals and communities have greater control over their health and wellbeing. So when you get the opportunity to make a real difference in health, you'll be ready.

Courses available to study include:

- Graduate Certificate in Public Health
- Graduate Diploma in Public Health
- Master of Public Health (by Coursework)
- Master of Public Health (by Research)
- Doctor of Philosophy
- Doctor of Philosophy (Integrated)

Apply for Public Health
ecugetready.com.au

ECU. That's how university should be.

Get ready.