WA WOMEN'S HALL OF FAME

Cultural warning: This booklet includes names of people that may cause sadness and distress to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples'

The WA Women's Hall of Fame acknowledges Aboriginal people as the traditional custodians of these lands, their unique cultural and spiritual relationships to the land, waters and seas, and rich contribution to Western Australia.

Our purpose is to recognise and celebrate the social, economic, historical, scientific, cultural, and political achievements of women, who have helped to build this great State.

Thank you to all our valued sponsors and partners, without their support the WA Women's Hall of Fame 2022 would not be possible.

We are delighted to introduce you to the 2022 WA Women's Hall of Fame Inductees.

Hon Simone McGurk MLA
Minister for Child Protection; Women's Interests;
Prevention of Family and Domestic Violence; Community Services

As the Minister for Women's Interests, I'm proud to support the WA Women's Hall of Fame. The WA Women's Hall of Fame has played a key role in elevating the dialogue around women's achievements in Western Australia since its inaugural year in 2011, by showcasing women in our community, honouring their achievements and demonstrating the power of role models.

Since that time, we've celebrated Elders, teachers, carers, businesswomen and trailblazers, as well as those who have fought for equal rights and equal opportunity.

These women are powerful role-models for women and girls in our community and have rightfully earned our admiration. They motivate us, advocate for those in need and encourage us all to do better and to strive for excellence.

By supporting women and girls to achieve in their chosen fields, we can build a stronger, more inclusive and prosperous State. The WA Women's Hall of Fame plays an important part in this goal by recognising and celebrating women's achievements.

During International Women's Day, it's an important time to not only reflect on the ground we have made in creating equality for women, but also on what work lies before us. With the opportunities we experience in Western Australia, every girl and woman should be able to reach her potential and achieve her aspirations.

By acknowledging the contributions of the inductees to our State and shining a spotlight on their achievements, we are creating a vehicle for change.
