Aim big! Remember, a team of 15-20 means a full reimbursement on your program and flights and will be a huge achievement. Your Leadership Mentor will provide guidance and ideas.

Team Management

You're not alone! Set a schedule for regular catch ups with your Leadership mentor so that you have continuous support in the lead up to your program.

During:

A dedicated team in-country team member will be there every step of the way as you coordinate group meetings and debriefs, supporting your team throughout their experience. You're also group photographer so we can keep up to date with all the amazing things you do!

After:

Encourage your team to fill out the CAA survey and share your experience with others to inspire future Challenge Leaders.

As a leader of a team, I found that I was forced to “put myself out there” a lot more than what I would do back home. For example, approaching team members individually and asking for feedback on my own performance. Normally I would shy away from these sorts of interactions. As a natural introvert this experience was awesome for my personal development.

When I look back, I think 'WOW'!

I learned so much about myself.
I think it was really cool to have brought together 6 different people who used their skills, knowledge and personalities to create a special experience for the local community and ourselves.
